

Future engineers attend innovation summit in California

Engineering students (from left) Chidubem Dimukeje and Serge Bangamwabo are representing UMES this weekend at the United Negro College Fund's 5th annual HBCU Innovation Summit in California. Scholars were selected based on their GPAs, personal statements, internships, computer science skills and leadership as well as their willingness to be change agents to align computer science curriculum with industry workforce needs and demands.