

Andrea Johnson

Instructor

ajjohnson@umes.edu

Degree(s)/Certificates

- M.F.A., Writing Popular Fiction — Seton Hill University
- B.A., English Literature — Swarthmore College
- Copyediting Certification — University of California San Diego

Areas of Expertise

- Composition
- African American Literature
- Creative Writing
- Commercial/Genre Fiction
- Pop Culture
- Copyediting

Mini-Bio

Andrea Johnson is a genre fiction writer with an expertise in romance literature and traditional mysteries. Prior to her employment at UMES, she worked at Wor-Wic Community College in Salisbury, Maryland, where she taught the fundamentals of English, composition, and African American literature.

Publications, screenings, exhibitions, public works, etc.

Andrea is also an accomplished speaker having given several seminars on the craft of writing through the Mystery Writers of America, Malice Domestic, Sisters in Crime, the International Thriller Writers, Women's Fiction Writers Association, and the Surrey International Writers' Conference (Canada).