

Phillip Broussard

Director, Centers for Foreign Language Instruction & International Education

pbroussard@umes.edu

Degree(s)/Certificates

- M.A. Washington University in St. Louis
- M.S. University of Maryland Eastern Shore

Areas of Expertise

- World Languages and Literature
- International Affairs
- Political Science

Mini-Bio

Phillip Broussard is a world traveler and language aficionado. In his early career as a United States foreign service officer, Phillip Broussard spent time learning about diplomacy, cultures, and crisis management. As a government official, Phillip Broussard received extensive training in area studies, consular affairs, and public diplomacy among other areas. After leaving the U.S. diplomatic corps, Phillip Broussard continued to work in international relations in the government as a consultant. He has extensive experience living and working in various countries in East Asia, South America, Europe, the Middle East, and Africa. After nearly two decades in government, Phillip Broussard transitioned to academia where he currently works to create, promote, and enhance international academic experiences for students. He is fluent in four languages and proficient in another two languages. In his free time, he enjoys, reading literature, learning new languages, and surfing.