

Bill Cecil, M.Ed.

Adjunct Lecturer

wececil@umes.edu

Degree(s)/Certificates

- M.Ed. University of Maryland Eastern Shore

Areas of Expertise

- Writing Instruction
- Trauma-Responsive Pedagogy
- Project-Based Teaching & Learning

Mini-Bio

Cecil began working with words as a young newspaper reporter in the late 1970s, writing for several small-town newspapers before moving on for a stint as a news editor.

Later, as a consultant and trainer for numerous major companies in the furniture and textile industry, and working with government agencies and nonprofits, he spent decades writing reports, assessments, and grants.

His teaching experience includes public schools, prisons, and alternative education settings. When not actively teaching, he strolls through swamps and marshlands attempting to capture photographic images, combining them with photo-poetic writings.

Publications, screenings, exhibitions, public works, etc.

Cecil is developing a series of photography showings.